

Dr Liam Blackwell

Liam Blackwell has been Head of Programme for Information and Communications Technology Programme (ICT), since October 2008. Liam joined EPSRC in 2000. Before becoming Head of Programme Liam worked in the Nano-Science through Engineering to Application and Physical Science programmes, before that he worked in the Engineering Programme and Physics Programmes.

Liam trained as a material scientist, receiving his degree and doctorate from the University of Leeds. After his PhD he spent three years working in the clay mining industry before taking up a position at the Engineering and Physical Sciences Research Council (EPSRC).