

Richard Lane – Coventry University

Richard Lane is a Senior Academic with a background in the creative industries, games development and academic development. In recent years he has transitioned into workforce development and national skills interventions. As Academic Lead for the Institute of Coding and Product Development Director for the Electric Revolution Skills Hub his focus has been to develop skills in industries undergoing technology and skills transformation.